

Tell us your “chicharrón”

1 What was your problem or "chicharrón"?

Draw a proble, "headache" or "chicharrón", either personal or job related, that you had in the past. Your drawing must show the problem without it being solved.

Briefly describe the problem.

Tell us about the problem's causes, context (space and time) in which it happened, and the actores involved in the problem

Context (Causes):

Negative Effects:

Actors:

2 What ideas did you have to solve your problem?

Draw an idea you had to solve the problem (Idea 1)

Draw an idea you had to solve the problem (Idea 2)

Draw an idea you had to solve the problem (Idea 3)

Briefly describe your idea.

Briefly describe your idea.

Briefly describe your idea.

Tell us who you discussed your ideas with, what barriers did you identify and what idea was the riskiest.

Who did you discuss your ideas with?

What barriers did you identify?

What was your riskiest idea?

Tell us your “chicharrón”

3 What idea did you choose?

Draw the idea you ended up choosing to solve your problem, "headache" or "chicharrón".

Fully describe the idea that you chose.

Tell us who supported your idea, the reasons why you chose it and what you needed to set it in motion.

Who supported you?

Why did you choose that idea?

What did you need to make it a reality?

4 What was the result?

Draw how the solution contributed to improve the situation you detailed in the first drawing. Try to be as specific as possible.

Briefly describe the solution and how it positively affected the situation.

Tell us if your idea worked or not and why, if you tested out your solution and what lessons did you learn from this process.

Did your idea work? Why?

Did you test your solution? Why or why not?

What did you learn from all of this? Did you share your lessons?
